Scheme

When you get funding (money) from the NDIS you say how it will be managed (looked after).

You can say if you want:

- to manage the funding
- someone else to do some things to manage the funding
- someone else to do most things to manage the funding.

You can have as much help as you want.

You can change how much help you get.

You can decide to self-manage funding.

This means that you or someone you say (like your family) looks after funding.

You will get money in your account that you can use to get the support you need.

If you self-manage funding you will need to do lots of things like:

- find people who will support you
- pay people who support you
- keep notes of what you do.

You can get a registered plan management provider to look after your funding.

This is an organisation or individual that the National Disability Insurance agency (NDIA) has said can manage funding from the NDIS.

There is a list of who can do this.

They can help you as much as you need.

They can do things like:

- find people who will support you
- pay people who support you
- keep notes of how funding is used.

Agency

You can get the NDIA to manage your funding.

The NDIA is the agency that runs the NDIS.

If the NDIA manages your funding you will have less say about who supports you.

You will be able to choose from a list of providers

You will be able to say how you want to be supported.

The NDIA will:

- help you find providers
- pay providers.

You can manage your funding in a mix of ways.

You can manage funding the way that works best for you!
